Subject: CONTINUED HIGH PERFORMER STATUS UNDER THE U. S. DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT'S SECTION EIGHT MANAGEMENT ASSESSMENT PROGRAM FOR FISCAL Y

RECOMMENDATIONS

ACCEPT report on the Housing Authority of the County of Contra Costa (HACCC) as a High Performer under the Section 8 Management Assessment Program (SEMAP) for the period of April 1, 2021 through March 31, 2022.

BACKGROUND

HUD utilizes SEMAP to evaluate a public housing authority's (PHA) management of the HCV program. SEMAP scores are based on a combination of electronic data reported to HUD at regular intervals by PHAs and self-reported scores based on internal audits conducted by PHA staff. PHAs use HUD's SEMAP Certification form to submit their scores. Due to COVID, HUD has suspended some of the elements tied to SEMAP that cannot be conducted remotely such as Quality Control Inspections. As a result, while HUD still monitors SEMAP elements such as Selection from the Waiting List and Lease-Up/Utilization Rate, HUD has decided to carry over pre-COVID scores for most PHAs. As a result, HACCC retains its High Performer status last achieved for FYE 3/31/19.

HUD's measures the following elements via SEMAP:

- Selection From the Waiting List
- Determination of Rent Reasonableness
- Determination of Adjusted Income
- Maintaining Current Utility Allowance Schedules
- Conducting Quality Control Inspections
- Expanding Housing Opportunities
- Maintaining Current Payment Standards
- Conducting Annual Income Reexaminations
- Correctly Calculating Tenant Rent
- Conducting Pre-Contract Housing Quality Standards (HQS) Inspections
- Annual HQS Inspections
- Lease-Up/Utilization Rate
- Housing Quality Standards Enforcement

BACKGROUND (CONT'D)

Because HACCC has graduated far more FSS participants than required by HUD, the Agency is no longer rated in the following Indicator:

- Family Self Sufficiency (FSS)

FISCAL IMPACT

HUD provides over $180 million annually to serve low-income families in Contra Costa County via the Housing Choice Voucher (HCV) rental assistance program. Maintaining at least a Standard performer status under SEMAP is one of HUD's conditions to ensure that continued funding is not jeopardized.

CONSEQUENCE OF NEGATIVE ACTION

Subject: THE AWARD OF 24 PROJECT-BASED VOUCHERS TO RESOURCES FOR COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT FOR 699 YVR HOUSING IN WALNUT CREEK, CA

RECOMMENDATIONS

APPROVE award of 24 project-based vouchers (PBV) to Resources for Community Development (RCD) for its new construction project, 699 YVR Housing, located at 699 Ygnacio Valley Road in Walnut Creek, CA, conditional upon this project meeting all HUD requirements and receiving all other required financing.

BACKGROUND

A housing authority can utilize up to 20% of its Housing Choice Voucher (HCV) funding to “attach” rent subsidies to specific housing units. The attached subsidy is known as a project-based voucher (PBV). PBVs are a component of the HCV program and share most of the same rules and regulations. PBVs are attached to units via a contract with the owner that requires the units be rented to families eligible for the HCV program. While tenants living in a PBV unit may move with regular voucher assistance, the PBV remains attached to the unit and the owner must select another HCV-eligible tenant for that unit. The advantage of PBVs for owners is that the PBV commitment from a housing authority can be used to leverage financing for the construction, rehabilitation, or preservation of housing for low-income families by providing a greater cash-flow than the property would otherwise generate. This is because most funding available to owners of affordable projects restricts the rent that can be collected from tenants to an affordable amount that is usually far less than a comparable unit would merit on the open market.

However, because the HCV program pays market rate rents by subsidizing the difference between an affordable rent for the tenant and the market rate rent for a particular unit, and the PBV program uses this same basic formula, the amount of rent that an owner can collect from a PBV unit is usually significantly higher than otherwise available to the project. This allows the owner to leverage far more financing than if PBVs were not available and thus can be crucial to the success of a given project. The primary advantage of PBVs to a housing authority is that they help increase or preserve the supply of permanent, affordable housing available to both the community and to HCV recipients.

HUD requires housing authorities to utilize a competitive process to select developments that will receive PBV or RAD PBV assistance. A housing authority can utilize its own competition or may choose projects that were competitively awarded affordable housing funds under a federal, state, or local government program (e.g., CDBG, HOME, competitively awarded Low-Income Housing Tax Credits). If the competitive process of another governmental entity is used, the award of those funds cannot have occurred more than three years from the PBV selection date, and the earlier selection proposal must not have involved any consideration that the project would receive PBV assistance.

BACKGROUND (CONT'D)

There are two methods by which developers can secure PBV assistance. One method is through a competitive solicitation. In September of 2015, HACCC posted a competitive solicitation that advertised the availability of up to 500 units for PBV assistance, conditioned on the acceptance of responders of RAD PBV assistance as part of the award. Twelve developers submitted applications in response to the request for proposals (RFP) and were conditionally approved for 189 RAD PBV and 121 traditional PBV units of assistance. A new competitive solicitation is currently out to the general public that makes 250 units of project-based assistance available and is has a deadline of June 30th for submission of applications by interested developers. The second method by which PBV assistance can be awarded is through a non-competitive process. As provided for in HACCC's Section 8 Administrative Plan approved by the Board of Commissioners, HACCC can accept proposals for PBV assistance from owners that were selected in another governmental entity's affordable housing competition. HACCC targets projects awarded funding by the Contra Costa County Department of Conservation and Development in one or more of its competitions for HOME, CDBG, HOPWA or other affordable housing programs. HACCC has taken this approach to maximize the success rate of projects funded by both the County and HACCC.

699 YVR Housing successfully competed for Federal HOME funding without the need for PBVs earlier in 2022 through a competitive Notice of Funding Availability, for HOME funds, issued by the County of Contra Costa. As a result of successfully competing for other Federal, State or Local funding without the use of PBV funds, RCD is eligible to seek PBVs through the non-competitive award process. 699 YVR Housing meets the criteria for submitting a non-competitive request for PBV assistance and HACCC has the ability to award the PBVs at this time.

This Board Order seeks to approve the award of 24 PBVs for 699 YVR Housing. If approved by the Board, HACCC will eventually enter into a housing assistance payment contract (HAP) with the owner of the development for an initial term of 20 years and an extension of the initial term of 20 years. Federal statute permits the initial term to be anywhere from one to twenty years. HACCC utilizes a twenty-year term to accommodate the tax credit compliance term and to provide projects with the maximum financing available. In addition, the Federal statute also permits housing authorities to grant an extension of up to twenty years to the PBV contract at signing. HACCC utilizes the twenty-year extension to further increase the financing available to the project and to ensure long-term affordability of the units. Any contract extensions are subject to the availability of federal funding for the HCV program.

All tenants of PBV units must be screened for eligibility for the HCV program by HACCC and must come from HACCC's PBV site-based wait list for the property. The PBV site-based wait list is open to all families on HACCC's HCV wait list. The property owner will then select tenants for occupancy of a particular unit after conducting additional suitability screening consistent with their tenant screening and eligibility policies for that property. Tenants in PBV units will sign an initial lease with a one-year term. After one year, a PBV tenant can move from the PBV unit by using regular tenant-based HCV assistance subject to availability. If a PBV property does not continuously lease up all its PBV units, or if the property fails to meet HUD's Housing Quality Standards for health and safety, then the PBV units awarded to that property can be rescinded.

To date, HACCC has awarded 1,789 PBVs in previous funding competitions. Staff recommends that HACCC award 24 PBV units to RCD for 699 YVR Housing in Walnut Creek.

FISCAL IMPACT

The 699 YVR Apartments project is expected to receive approximately $36.6 million in rent and subsidies if the proposed contract and terms are approved. Funding for project-based vouchers is provided by utilizing a portion of the Housing Authority of the County of Contra Costa's (HACCC) tenant-based voucher funding.

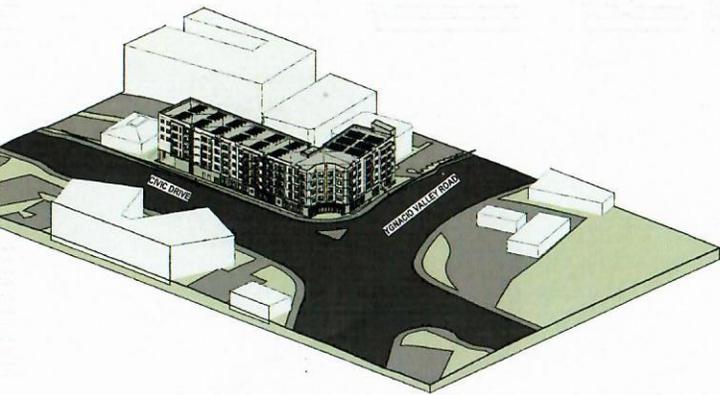

CONSEQUENCE OF NEGATIVE ACTION

Should the Board not approve the award of 24 PBV units to Resources for Community Development on behalf of 699 YVR Housing, the project will likely not be able to proceed as the rental assistance for these units is critical to its financial viability.

The only reserves that can be used freely are unrestricted reserves within the State and Local Programs that are not tied to the tax credit properties. These reserves can be used to support any of HACC's programs.

RECOMMENDATIONS (CONT'D)

BACKGROUND

Over the past winter, forty-four public housing units, located in the Bayo Vista development in Rodeo, have been experiencing roof leaks. The roof leaks, which have been increasing in frequency and severity, have been temporarily addressed with patching and other repairs. However, the roofing in these buildings are at the end of their useful lives and require permanent replacement. In addition, there is likely dry rot damage underneath the roofing that is in need of prompt repair.

HACCC solicited a quote for the roof replacement work from Garland, piggy-backing off of an existing Master Intergovernmental Cooperative Purchasing Agreement between Garland and Racine County, WI and U.S. Communities (MICPA #PW1925). On June 30, 2022, Garland submitted a proposal and project design specifications to perform the roof replacement project for $731,935. Staff has reviewed the proposal, which is comparable to our own Independent Cost Estimate, and is satisfied it is a reasonable price for the work involved and matches the low-bid pricing under the above piggy-backed master contract.

To enable the roof replacement project to be completed this construction season, the Executive Director recommends that the Board take the following actions:

- (1) Approve the project design and specifications, which approval will provide design immunity to the Housing Authority under Government Code Section 830.6.
- (2) Award the construction contract for the above project to Garland, the lowest responsible bidder under the above piggy-backed master contract, for $731,935, direct the Executive Director, or designee, to prepare the contract, and authorize the Executive Director, or designee, to sign the contract following review and approval of the signed contract, bonds, and insurance from Garland.
- (3) Take the additional related actions listed in the Recommended Actions above.

FISCAL IMPACT

The construction contract will be funded 100% by HUD.

CONSEQUENCE OF NEGATIVE ACTION

Should the Board not award the construction contract, as recommended, the roofing at these forty-four public housing units will remain in substandard condition, with the potential for additional leakage and damage during the next rainy season.
