BACKGROUND: (CONT'D)

Pursuant to Government Code Section 65400, the County is required to submit an annual report to the State Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) and the State Office of Planning and Research by April 1 of each year. Jurisdictions are also required to submit the annual report to their legislative bodies for review and comment. The County's full 2020 Annual Housing Element Progress Report is included as Attachment A.

In 2020, the County issued 91 building permits for single-family dwellings, 49 building permits for accessory dwelling units, one building permit for a duplex, and one building permit for a triplex. All of these issued permits are non-deed restricted units and all are considered above-moderate income units. Eight units included a demolition and new construction permit in 2020, for a net gain of 137 new housing units.

The following is a summary of the County's progress in meeting its share of regional housing needs. Calendar year 2020 is the sixth year of the the eight-year Housing Element cycle. The County has issued building permits for 138% of its total aggregate share of the region's allocated housing units. Through the first six years of the current housing cycle, the total number of units for which the County has issued building permits is 1,889 units, which includes 63 very-low income units, 183 low-income units, 129 moderate-income units, and 1,514 above-moderate income units. While the County has already exceeded gross housing production goals, production of new housing units available to households in the moderate-, low-, and very low-income categories is behind but progressing. So far, the County has issued building permits to meet 17% of the very low-income category, 84% of the low income category and 53% of the moderate income housing units indicated in the County's Housing Element and RHNA for Contra Costa County. The issuance of a building permit is what the State considers a "unit" for the purposes of this report.

The County continues to implement 31 housing related programs, including programs designed to remove governmental constraints to maintaining, improving, and developing housing. A summary of the programs and recent accomplishments are included as Table D in the attached report.

For the past three reporting years, the State has required all jurisdictions to provide a greater volume of information regarding new housing projects as part of the annual progress report. This information includes the additional reporting requirements of recently adopted housing legislation.

CONSEQUENCE OF NEGATIVE ACTION:

There is no consequence of a negative action. The Annual Housing Element Progress Report must be submitted no later than April 1 in accordance with Government Code Section 65400. The County is required to provide the Annual Housing Element Progress Report to the Board of Supervisors in a public meeting to allow the public an opportunity to review and comment on the report.
